Little Ben: What Is Yes and What Is No?

Once upon a time, there was a little boy named Ben. Ben was a very curious little boy, and he loved to ask questions. One day, Ben asked his mother, "What is yes?"

Ben's mother smiled and said, "Yes is a word that means 'I agree' or 'I approve'."

"Oh," said Ben. "What about no?"

Lending

"No is a word that means 'I disagree' or 'I don't approve'," said Ben's mother.

Ben nodded his head. "I think I understand," he said.

Ben's mother smiled. "I'm glad," she said. "Now, go and play."

Ben ran outside to play. He saw his friend, Joe, playing with a ball. "Can I play too?" asked Ben.

"Yes," said Joe.

Ben smiled and joined Joe in playing ball. After a while, Joe asked Ben, "Do you want to go for a walk?"

"No," said Ben. "I'm tired."

Joe nodded his head. "Okay," he said. "We can play ball some more."

Ben and Joe played ball for a while longer. Then, it was time for Ben to go home. "Goodbye, Joe," said Ben.

"Goodbye, Ben," said Joe. "See you tomorrow."

Ben walked home, thinking about what he had learned about "yes" and "no". He realized that these two words were very important. They helped him to communicate with others. They helped him to express his thoughts and feelings.

Ben was glad that he had learned about "yes" and "no". He knew that these two words would help him to be a better communicator.
